

Service Disruptions Due to Weather

Monday, March 20, 2023

Weather is impacting areas of West Coast, Western, and Midwestern states. At the moment, all areas mentioned have various levels of delays or no service.

We're still seeing snow in the forecast for the northern Midwest region. We should expect service interruptions to be extended through the week in some of these areas.

Click the links below to get to the carriers' weather impact maps. We use the R&L map because it is a good general representation of LTL coverage. However, each carrier may vary slightly based on where they do/do not have terminals.
